Freestyle Constructive Thoughts James Dubreze

Freestyle constructive thoughts is a philosophical approach to societal issues, values & discoveries. In this book I evaluate the thoughts of Richard Adams, Socrates, Manfred-Max Neef, Dr. Martin Luther King, Karl Loren, Speaker John Boehner, FDR, President Hu Jintao, The Legendary Bob Marley, Michele Toomey PhD Harvard, Dr. Cornel West, Dr. Joy DeGruy Leary & Malcolm X.

In this book, I'm free-styling about different ideas, concepts and values. Among which are: The rejection of "I Think Therefore I am" - Ideas and their practicalities, freedom of the mind, the human body as a magnetic field, what is evil? The Golden rule, why conflict is driven by intended pressure, what is a theory? misinterpretation, what is reality? How to be loyal to our beliefs, what is communication, the good & the bad side of competition, the method of crime, why knowledge is not power, why information is Not knowledge but the path to knowledge, relationships & equality and many other topics.

By reading this book you are in fact exploring naked thoughts bathing in a pool of metaphors, while new philosophical concepts exposes the truth of our Confucius endeavor. As an intrigue mind you'll be attracted to new inquiries that add value to logic. Since anything that is relative is subjective, any form of relativity without a set measurement cannot be a qualitative value that can be used to measure any level of truthfulness. Therefore we're all ignorant for the simple fact that that we do not know everything there is to know. Thus, whatever it is that we do Not yet know, we are therefore ignorant about it.

I explained why the truth always permits reason to take the path of least resistance, while the lie is the bumpy road. I also expose my readers to parables such as within the center of the ocean liner is a gyroscope. Proverbs such as those you know in daylight need Not be illuminated in darkness for recollection. And during the harvesting seasons of rice, even the smallest of all stones triage are collected as valuables. I discussed these proverbs in this book in great detail. Seek and you should find, for knowledge is limitless. After all, the paradox of life is not that its a bitch, but rather because the planet is not viewed as an integral part of humanity.
