I'm very lucky that I live in the beautiful Oxfordshire village of Bampton.

By chance the location finders for the series Downton Abbey discovered the village's charms and decided to film the village scenes here.

When you watch the series you'll see a church which is used for weddings and funerals. I'm very proud to say that's our church. And Downton Cottage Hospital is in real life our library, where often our books are late returning to.

From the windows of our house I was able to watch most of the filming as it took place and take lots of photos. So many people who've come to visit our village have asked me what it was like when they were filming here that I decided to make this short book and include some of my photos. I'm not a professional photographer or writer but it will give you a flavour of how it feels when the place you live in suddenly becomes a film set.

Over the last five years the cast and crew of Downton Abbey have appeared to film a couple of times a year for several days each time. Life becomes surreal as we step out of our cottage and find ourselves back in time.

It's strange but also very normal now to find a famous actor outside our front door. And it no longer takes us by surprise when we're in our kitchen and we hear the shout of "Action" from right outside.

This is the first in a series of books that I'm writing with my memories and photos of each series as it was filmed. You will recognize some famous faces that I snapped as they passed by and if you're able to come and visit Bampton you'll see for yourself what a beautiful and friendly place it is.

I hope you enjoy it. Thank you for letting me share this with you.
