It is said that the sub-continent is a land of many colors. And in such a land in Century 18, came Ruler Black and with all his might and strength subdued all the colors and the land had become colorless.

Black is a color that absorbs all colors. The basic principles of light in Physics inform us that any color when shined on black just gets absorbed (and in a manner of speaking dies). White is the only color that allows all colors to reflect back their own color. Moreover white is the color that you get when all colors are combined (again basic Physics).

This is what strikes as a dazzling revelation to Khadi White. He is now convinced that Ruler Black can only be defeated by the strength of the colors. And Khadi White leads a revolution where he gathers all the colors and fights Black with non-violence and ahimsa.

Freedom achieved. But how? And what were the consequences later? What about a Black Queen who robs freedom in the name of Emergency? How did rosy red become the leader? Till today when all the colors are shouting “Swacha Bhoomi” and the children are on a resurgence.

A tale for children. A tale of freedom. A tale where non-violence wins over violence. A tale that has some science. And also a tale that can never can end.
