Not illustrated. 1904 edition. Excerpt: ...members. On the other hand, radical expressions became more pronounced. Hunnicutt declared that the constitution would probably be rejected by the popular vote, and, therefore, he was in favor of disfranchising 30,000 more men in addition to those already disfranchised." The minority report was rejected by a decisive vote upon March 4" and the majority report was then taken up for consideration. It provided that all male citizens twentyone years of age might vote, with the following exceptions: lunatics, persons convicted of felony, treason or bribery, duelists and all persons disfranchised by the fourteenth amendment or the reconstruction act. A two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature might re-enfranchise. The first three sections of the report were adopted without much debate. But the hottest fight of the whole convention raged about the fourth section. Orrin E. Hine offered a substitute disfranchising every Confederate who had been a Senator, Congressman, Presidential elector; who had held any civil or military office under the United States or under any State, and who had taken the oath of allegiance to the United States." This practically included all the officers in the State." Snead proposed an amendment to the sub 31 According to this report, the returns from fifteen counties in Virginia showed that in these counties the negroes owned only $139.09 worth of taxable property and the greater part of their polltax was unpaid.--Enquirer, February 28, 1868.
