What Makes a Good Story?

Interesting stories grab our attention, gain our involvement, and get past the noise. Stories are "carrier waves" for messages that the creator is trying to get across to the audience. They can be thought of as a framework for sharing those messages with others.

Why Are Stories so Powerful?

What many people don't realize is just how powerful stories can be, when they're thoughtfully crafted. Stories are able to deeply and profoundly influence our audience's subconscious mind, evoke emotion, and drive an audience to take action.

Think of the last movie you saw. You may not remember all the details of the film itself, but do you remember how it made you feel? Did you walk away with any new perspectives or ideas? Did you take action or do something differently than you would have, had you not seen it?

What Will I Get Out of This Book?

Once you've connected on a subconscious level, it wouldn't be unheard of if your audience jumped out of their seats, ready to take action immediately. We all know what it feels like to hear a captivating speaker, maybe a TED talk, a well-made movie, or a captivating book. Once you understand the intricacies of how the mind works as it absorbs stories and processes them, you'll be ready to go out and create that feeling for your audience!

You Deserve More Success, Influence, and Connection with Others. These Storytelling Techniques Can Get You There More Quickly!
